CUES® Offers Free 45-Day Trial Membership to All Industry Professionals, Board Members

MADISON, Wis.—CUES has announced credit union professionals and directors industry-wide can sign up for a free, 45-day trial membership.

During the trial, participants will have unrestricted access to CUES resources such as:

- CUES Learning Portal, which offers easy access to curated content and pre-set learning pathways to help members expand their skill set.
- Online education for board members through CUES Director Education Center.
- CUES Elite Access™ Virtual Classroom, highly interactive online training which allows participants to talk and interact with peers and experts, problem-solve, and build relationships, right from their desk.
- CUESNet™, the online networking community where CUES members can connect and share with each other, join communities, access a documents library, discover membership tips, and more.

“CUES has enhanced our benefits to provide access to many digital options,” said Jimese Harkley, CUES’ VP/Membership. “We’re happy to offer the free trial—we feel it’s more important than ever to make sure our training and development platforms can be accessed without travel, or from the comfort of home.”

“CUES is here to support the industry, and we want the industry’s professionals to have access to our online talent development tools to help them keep their professional edge,” said John Pembroke, CUES’ President/CEO. “Plus, our turnkey solutions can benefit everyone at the credit union—from executives and board members to the front-line staff.”

CUES offers three membership benefit levels—Individual, Unlimited, and Unlimited+. Credit unions joining at either Unlimited level can offer the membership to everyone at their credit union, including all employees, board members, and committee members.

Those who sign up for the trial will receive an electronic membership kit to help them navigate the benefits. To learn more about the trial, visit cues.org/CUES-trial-membership.
